Farmer.....you have those flockers on your farm? I swear i've had beagles that dint leave that much dirt.

Yea, those, blue herons, sandhill cranes, many species of ducks, all kinds of birds.

I live in (or under) a major migratory flyway.

If I wanted a goose dinner, all I would have to do is wait for some to fly over and pick one out. Or I could "borrow" some of my neighbors lawn art (goose decoys) and call some in.

But they stay out of my yard, and for the most part they stay away from my pond because we chase them off. They stop occasionally, and this year there was a pair that hung around for awhile, but they won't stick around. Many other ponds nearby are more suitable for nesting including a couple of them across the street.
