

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Finding small streams

Re: Finding small streams

Author: : JackM

Date: : 2013/4/8 11:04:14

URL:

Jersey, try using Google Maps or one of the others with available satellite pictures. If they are available, you can get an idea of the distance any part of the stream might be from homes or buildings. Oftentimes in long stretches of unoccupied land, the landowner does not object to anglers using the water responsibly.

The best practice is to ask permission, but many of us consider the lack of posting and remoteness a clue to the landowners' attitude toward "trespassing" anglers. (Added: pulloffs and paths are helpful clues, too).