I've had issues on several occasions tying my blood knots. Same problem but in two different areas. When the 2 ends are of different diameters. For instance, i tied on some new floating line the other day and i tried for probably 20 min to tie my backing to the floating line. Just seems like the different diameters and different materials didn't meld just right and I couldnt get the floating line to pull just right to make the knot. Same thing with my leaders. When my leader gets cut down a bit (i prob just need a new leader but i'm cheap) my tippet is then hard to attach. Any suggestions?
