

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Finding small streams

Re: Finding small streams

Author: : WildTigerTrout

Date: : 2013/4/8 16:38:17

URL:

Quote:

BeastBrown wrote:

I don't know if you hunt and know this, but the very last few days of April, 27th, I think, and all of May, is spring turkey season, and the SGLs and State Forests will have a decent amount of turkey hunters.....wear some orange. They are no longer required to wear orange in the spring, so they may not see you, and you may not see them.

The first half of the season from the 27 to the 11th is only hunting till 12 pm, noon. After that it runs sun up till one half hour after technical sunset. I wouldn't let it keep you out of the woods, but be alert. Maybe you're a hunter, who knows, but now everyone knows.

I know if I am in the woods and if it's before noon I won't be trout fishing. I'll be after Ben Franklin's favorite bird. Turkey hunting in the morning and trout fishing during the afternoon. A splendid combination! 🍗