Shad should be doing good now, I have caught them in march some years (sm. bucks) If the temps are 48 and higher you should hit them. fish the edges of the channels and get down deep. walleye should be in the deep pool at scudders now, got to dredge for them along the bottom. first light is good for shad and then in evenings. some days they will daisey chain in the shallows and a bright wet fly will work then..I use an orvis T3 8 wt. with shooting heads from intermediate to 30' of lead core to fish the delaware..
