There is maintenance, complying with DCNR regs for cabins, if your's is on SF land, Worrying about break ins mowing, keep the trees and under cover away from the building. Liability, this is 2 sided, if our land is open to fishing you should be good, but carry it anyway, if you land s not open then you definately need liability Isn. and probably more than you would if your land is open. Check on it though.

One other thing, trees come down and if the roof is damaged, you'll need to fix it asap or everything rots.

I don't own a cabin now, but belong to a club that owns one on SF land and that's some of what I've learned.
