Anyone ever hear the "official" reason they stocked fingerlings in the regs section on Little Sandy?

Anyone fish there lately? Are they still there? Spread out?

Suposedly the fingerlings are fin clipped and the PAFBC will be surveying for survival rate. This is according to Oil Creek TU. OCTU is also planning more habitat improvement projects for the stream. I would like to see the PAFBC contribute to the cause as well. Holding water is the only thing the stream is missing IMO. There are already good numbers of wild fish, particularly in the stretches that have good structure. I would be surprised if the stream was not at least class B. Though, I would suppose that depends on the stretch surveyed.
