

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : Warm Water Action

Re: Warm Water Action

Author: : Fishidiot

Date: : 2013/4/11 8:44:43

URL:

Been tough for me this spring (blasted wind!)

Did manage to get out a couple hours a couple days ago looking for toothy critters and panfish. The wind played havoc with my canoe and casting muskie flies was harrowing. Deciding that I didn't want to start any new feathers and piercing trends...decided to hit some protected bays where I usually expect to find crappies in bushes this time of year. Didn't see or catch a thing. The water was very clear and I could see down into the brush. No crappies or panfish were visible. The lake was also noticeably barren of any early weed growth.

Been a strange spring for WW species, to say the least, and definitely has me scratching my head.

Nice catch Deltadog!

(This thread will be moved to the Warm Water forum)