I often buy a couple blanks at the Somerset show and have built a few rods from them. I had one multi piece 6WT that cracked at the ferrule after only a few casts and required that I do some thread and glue repairs (it has fished fine since). They tend to be fast action and on the heavy side. On the other hand, these blanks are very inexpensive and, for the price, I can't complain.
I'll probably continue to use them.
