PennKev - Yes, I have made that walk (or fished that walk) many times. My issue is that I am camping for 4 nights in Poe Paddy and tradition typically has me fishing until dark somewhere between the tunnel and Cherry Run. I really do not like the idea of following the creek all the way back instead of cutting through the tunnel.

Parking at the lower end near Cherry Run isn't too convenient if one is camping in Poe Paddy.

I am with Troutbert, I have seen the evidence of falling rocks for many years; I will probably just continue to roll the dice. I am seriously considering the bike helmet approach however.

Krayfish - yes, it blows. particularly if you have to then drive back to the campground at Poe Paddy!

McSneek - If you don't hear back from me it is because I was killed by a falling rock!
