

---

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : Time To Hit The Salt Again

Re: Time To Hit The Salt Again

Author: : jrmyln

Date: : 2013/4/15 13:16:01

URL:

Quote:

marcq wrote:

It's kinda both I use it as a tool to put me in a good spot for wade fishing but ill fish out of it to.

Surfcowboy generally I fish north mostly Monmouth and up. But with the kayak I will be heading to IBSP. I gonna try to figure out that flats fishing they say the have there.

The past few years that area has been hit or miss. Up until 3 years ago, it was not unusual for the gorilla blues to invade the flats in the spring. Wading out to the edge or kayaking out and casting out almost guaranteed at least an awesome chase on each cast. The blues would get themselves in such a frenzy, they would throw the banger clear out of the water and completely miss it. Since the geotube opened up, it hasn't even been close.

But the nighttime bass bite is a different story.