

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : Warm Water Action

Re: Warm Water Action

Author: : caveman

Date: : 2013/4/15 22:55:32

URL:

I went out to a small local quarry lake today, that I have never fished and took the FF806. Man I had so much fun with the BIG bluegills. I have never caught big ones like that before. A Walts worm was the most successful fly. Cast out and let it sink for a few seconds and then slowly start stripping it back in. Man I wished I had a bucket and a camera. These things were easy 9 or 10 inches long. Would have made a nice fish fry. Gonna have to go back. It was difficult casting, Just a few open spots for a back cast so I was doing some pretty impressive roll casts.