Relying on my memory I can't completely rule out a yellowish leaf hopper, but it doesn't seem quite right. Definitely wasn't a crane fly though - shorter legs and body than that picture.

I'm glad to know about the leaf hoppers though - there was a big brown cruising up and down the bank at one point and occasionally (and aggressively) taking something from right along the bank. He wouldn't take an ant pattern... Next time maybe I'll try something that looks a little like a leaf hopper.
