

Subject: : Fly Fishing Locations

Topic: : Segloch Run

Re: Segloch Run

Author: : Mike

Date: : 2013/4/17 22:10:10

URL:

Theoretically yes, but in practice highly unlikely. A single pass up the stream, fishing the way anglers typically fish, would not do it. It would also require a determination of the length and average width of the stretch fished, as well as the weights of the fish caught. You could make the effort to prove a point, but that's not the way people fish.