

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : Myrtle Beach - End of April

Myrtle Beach - End of April

Author: : 5RingsBL

Date: : 2013/4/18 12:33:43

URL:

This is more of a shot in the dark, or search for motivation more than anything else. It's always good to bring the fishin' pole with me on trips.

First and most importantly, I won't be hiring a guide. I know it greatly limits my options, but it's just me and my girlfriend going, and I don't want to drop that kind of money for a guide on my own (oddly enough, she doesn't fly fish).

Are there any worthwhile options to go out and wet a line in the Myrtle Beach area (an hour drive) in the next couple of weeks? When I say 'worthwhile', I'm basically referring to anything besides blind casting my 8wt on the beach - unless of course there's a good reason why I should be doing so! I have the basic saltwater patterns, but am always open to suggestions as well.

Any insight would be greatly appreciated.

Thanks.