I note you changed terminology to "disaster" from "accident" regarding TMI. I agree, it was not a disaster. It was, however, a major accident considering it left one reactor in rubble. Just because the containment vessel wasn't breached, doesn't mean it wasn't a major accident.

I guess my main point is, counting "accidents" is not a valid way to compare nuclear reactors to fracking. There's 104 nuclear reactors in the US while there's 1771 active drilling rigs operating in the US (as of 4/12/13 according to Baker Hughes). 59 in PA alone, down from 101 last year this time.
