The log and debris jam at the bottom of that hole turned it into a pond over the past year. On the upside, that hole is now holding several larger fish. In the last month it has produced several different 15" fish and 1 17" fish. Eventually, another epic blow out will happen and it will change everything again. The entire lower creek is completely different now. It's a good thing. It keeps you on your toes as a fisherman. It creates new habitat for the fish.

That's good to know. Thanks. It held nice fish before too, but it's good to know it changed for the better.

And that is one reason why I love fishing! Things are always changing and you are always learning.
