IT looks to me like the pool is much deeper and the water is cloudy this year vs. low and clear last year.

That's why you can't see the stone in the middle of the pool.

Everything last year was much lower on opening weekend last year than this year.

Just saying that's the way it's been this year. things change rapidly in streams and it can be because of a single event.

That is not the case. I fish this creek several time per month. The lower end of the run is jammed up at the outlet and you can't see it on either photo.
