Cool! That right there is proof C&R works. I know of 4 or so fish I have caught twice and there could have been others I didn't notice. I think this has been said on here a bunch of times, but a fish caught twice is better than a fish caught once then killed.

edit: Now that I've looked at it more I'm not sure if that's the same fish or not. Spots don't all seem to match up, and I don't really think the pelvic fins can heal/grow that much in a month.
