

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Wind

Re: Wind

Author: : PatrickC

Date: : 2013/4/22 9:53:16

URL:

Quote:

boychick wrote:

Back cast is a good idea, I'll have to try that. I use a side arm cast in the wind and keep the line low and close to the water. Takes some practice, but it gets the job done.

I actually learned it fishing saltwater inshore for redfish. It's always breezy and you have to make long accurate casts (stuff we just rarely do on small trout streams). One day I was fishing in stiffer winds and the guide shared the same advice and as we worked through it....it changed my thought process and the dynamics of my casting forever.