Yeah I have to agree, really pricey for what they are, but if they can actually spec a rods flex to exactly what you want, thats pretty cool...

The big thing im seeing is its only for thier availble blanks now. I would love to see some of thier other rod legnth available as well. Heck id like to get my hands on an old 11' professional wih the switch/regular fighting butt changability...

PacBay makes the Quickline series blanks and they have an 11' 8wt. Unfortunately, it is rated for a SH 8wt, not a TH 8wt. It's an awesome deep wading rod. I just ordered a TH 6wt line to try on it since I have an extra switch handle built for it.

I had 2 of these rods built with REC components for less than 1 the custom TFO's.
