

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : New Offering from TFO

Re: New Offering from TFO

Author: : PennKev

Date: : 2013/4/22 22:42:16

URL:

Quote:

FrequentTyer wrote:

.It looks like the custom work really comes down to cosmetics and a standard "blueprinting" (which is ridiculous)...

blueprinting = buzzword

I can't think of anything they could possibly do to fine tune the action of a blank once it is rolled and baked other than selectively sand areas of the blank.

How about they just improve the quality of their blanks?

Also, still can't forget the time I saw a brand new TFO sitting on the rack with a *hole* in the blank.

Never seen a TFO with decent cork either. At least that would be corrected in a custom build ( I would hope).