

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : Hydro Fracking Trouble in Wyoming County

Re: Hydro Fracking Trouble in Wyoming County

Author: : DanW

Date: : 2013/4/23 10:30:05

URL:

Quote:

wsender wrote:

It's stored in water to cool.

If you think I'm lying, check it out.

http://www.scientificamerican.com/art ... active-than-nuclear-waste

The main premise of that article is the radiation from the coal ash escapes into the atmosphere or leaches into the soil or water. Not that the ash itself is more radioactive than the spent fuel from a nuclear reactor.