

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Those Dumb Stockies

Re: Those Dumb Stockies

Author: : allan_s

Date: : 2013/4/23 11:21:25

URL:

I caught my fair share of 2-3 inch wild browns and native brookies in my few hours of experience on that stream. Funny thing was, I went on over to the delayed harvest on Black Mo and though very crowded, at least half the fish I caught were wild or natives.

I usually take pictures of fish but for those little natives I try to get them back in the water ASAP so no photographic evidence but they are there. Although I am sure anybody who has nymphed those streams has realized that already.

After you catch a 17 inch stockie and then a 3 inch brookie within 50 ft of each other, you just feel bad for the native.

6 Mile is really the sort of stream that screams wild/native fish live here. I wouldn't mind seeing what it looked like without stockies in it.

But then again, I bet if I said that at Philipsburg Uni Mart I wouldn't make it out alive!