You can drift the area without an indicator and see how long it takes to get your nymph to the bottom, then place the indicator

I usually don't nymph with an indicator(or I'll use my leader as one), but thats not the best way to start. ...

I don't get this. The best way to reach the right depth or variable depth is to not use an indicator, but you are training someone else to use one? Sorry, but that makes little sense to me.
