You should go Frederick. I was there for about 1 1/2 hours today and managed 12 shad. All hickories, no Americans and all on the fly. Oh by the way, I was license checked by Officer Ward of the Maryland DNR. He told me that my Bay and Coastal license ($22.50) and my MD. Saltwater Angler Registration (free) were all I needed to fish below the dam at Conowingo. That's what the guys in my fishing club told me I'd need. I only mention it because I believe there has been some misinformation included in this thread. I asked Officer Ward about the Migratory license referenced earlier in this thread and he said that that is for off shore anglers targeting specific species. Again, I'm only mentioning this because I'm concerned that some potential newbies to Conowingo may be put off by comments earlier in this thread. It's not that complicated. Go!
