Actually the blueprinting process was something that was developed independent of TFO. It was being done for some time. The TFO Custom rods just came about over the summer.

"Doing it right like sage, Winston, orvis, Scott"

All of which have been beaten out by Asian and TFO rods in the Yellowstone shoot outs and other independent rankings. Also those production rods reach 50% more than the 500 custom TFO.

Lots of doubt being thrown around with no factual basis

Funny that the criticism is price, only to bandwagon on the expensive brands. Nothing based on performance.

Remember when sage wanted 1300 (500 upcharge) for a ONE with upgraded hardware?
