

Subject: : Fly Fishing Locations

Topic: : Hendrickson's this weekend Altoona region?

Hendrickson's this weekend Altoona region?

Author: : crs5942

Date: : 2013/4/25 9:11:24

URL:

Anyone have a good recommendation for hitting a Hendrickson hatch this weekend in the Altoona region? I want to get my fiance out to experience a good hatch. Unfortunately, I have been running into a lot of fisherman chasing stocked trout the past week and the fishing has been poor despite hendricksons and blue quills hatching. The best hendrickson hatch I have ever fished in central PA was several years ago on Bald Eagle Creek in Port Matilda. I am looking to fish somewhere in the Altoona area, within 45 minutes, that I can get into some fish on hendricksons or at least blue quills. I fear that stocked streams may have too much pressure; however, Bald Eagle is stocked and was great when I fished it a few years ago. Any suggestions would be appreciated. Send a personal message if you do not wish to attract publicity to the stream. Thanks.