I half care \ im half trolling because i know the way people are so anal with the word native. But seriously, whatever.

Jdaddy, The stream was recently stocked. But this fish was so small, the colors and fins were clean compared to all the other fish. I know this stream has had NON STOCKED fish found in it before, as well as the tribbs to it, and Mike can confirm that. So its really not an off guess. I just wanted others opinions that are more educated on the subject.

As far as keeping the fish, i prefer not to keep fish in dhalo special reg areas. And as far as the damage to the fish, yea it was out of the water longer then id usually care for, and not treated as delicately as i usually would. But the fact of the matter was i don't expect that fish to live past tomorrow anyway seeing this stream is poached ethically and unethically almost every day.

All in all, everyone that liked the footage, enjoy.
