Knot testing is a good tip for sure. In my defense, (re 6x) I fish heavily pressured waters as a matter of course, and often fish 5X to a weighted fly followed by 6x to a dropper. If your knots are good you can put a surprising amount of force on a fish. If a big fish runs you pretty much have to go with it and just be patient. As stated above, the more big fish you play the better feel you get for it. Practice as often as possible, and don't let my wife see this!
