Thanks everyone, all the advice was great! I'll definitely check out the Juniata River and the Standing Stone Creek since I'm a bit limited on transportation and they are so close. Any particular areas of Standing Stone Creek that are good? I'm sure I could get out towards Alexandria and likely Raystown, so I will definitely check out those areas as well. A meal at Main Street is always welcome, and one of my favorite things to do is go to local fly shops! Any thoughts on dry flies vs nymphing around this time? I prefer dries, but will nymph as well if the fish aren't hitting dries. And though I've never fished bass on a fly rod, I am certainly open to it. Are there any different techniques I need to learn or any different flies I should buy or is it similar to trout?

Thanks again everyone!
