Pittflyguy,

I used to swing for steelhead with a single hand 8 wt, man was a chore. I got the switch rod in March and have been fishing as much as time will allow (working and being a part time student is a bltch). I love the two hander, it really makes fishing big streamers so much more effective. The casting was tricky at first. I'm no Ed Ward either, but I managed to become proficient enough to get the fly in the zone and catch fish. I just ordered Skagit Master to learn the jedi secrets ;). I plan to fish for bass with the switch rod over the summer to work on casting so I can put it to the steelies next fall!
