

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : Who runs LJRA?

Re: Who runs LJRA?

Author: : nymphingmaniac

Date: : 2013/4/29 8:06:20

URL:

Bill is busy. the grannoms just concluded and there are other items ongoing in regards to projects with the river. he gets many emails to activate account. Most are spam/phishing schemes. Be sure to include information in the email to give him an idea that you are legit. The best way is to join the organization this would expedite things because he can be assured you are not trying to access the site for other reasons -although not required to be part of the forum.

Pennkev, one event was a pesticide spill. This wiped out the macros and crayfish but had little direct effect on the fish. The fish starved as a result. This was caused by a flood that washed drums of pesticide stored in the flood plain. There was another kill further upstream (just below tyrone) for which the cause is unknown. I've heard stories of fish "jumping onto the bank" to escape whatever was in the water.