
Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Who do you think is in the wrong?

Re: Who do you think is in the wrong?

Author: : jdaddy

Date: : 2013/4/29 17:37:02

URL:

Quote:

Solution:

"A duly licensed angler who changes his residence during the licensing year must purchase a non-resident license to fish after the change of residence is effective, but shall be entitled to credit toward the cost of his or her non-resident license for all money paid to acquire the resident license for the same year...."

Correct.

Ignorance of the law is not an affirmative defense. The only part I question is the statement that the WCO threatened to put him in jail, confiscate his equipment AND his vehicle. I have a hard time believing that.

The old saying is that possession is 9/10ths of the law. Well this is the other 1/10th. When a person does not have a valid license to fish they are considered poachers regardless of possession of fish.