He said "I could take you gear and vehicle, but im not going to because I do not think you intentionally did this, I will take your license and you will receive the fine in the mail, you can buy a tourist license now"

So brad I guess now we have:

first regular license:	$38
fine:	$200
new license:	$30
total:	$278
days hes fishing:	4
so $/day	~$70

Im not starting this thread to argue whether or not he is poaching, there are more easy targets and they do not receive any fines. it is more to inform you guys if your ever in the situation or buy the multi year license and move out. I feel that in this case there should have been a warning issued and my friend informed. Im just very disappointed with the results
