

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Who do you think is in the wrong?

Re: Who do you think is in the wrong?

Author: : JeffK

Date: : 2013/4/29 20:54:21

URL:

I think Jack's answer is sensible. But, to be the Devil's advocate WCOs hear a lot of excuses and get to be pretty hard edged in my experience. Everybody has excuse after excuse and few people own up to their transgressions so WCOs get real tired of the nonsense. Maybe your friend didn't explain his situation well.

Also, most WCOs I know do use plenty of prudence. For example, adults taking kids fishing should have a license when they are handling the equipment. If a WCO sees an adult casting out a bobber with a Snoopy or Barbie rod and handing it to a kid I doubt the adult will get a citation. If the adult hands an expensive bait casting outfit with a $20 Japanese lure to a small child the WCO will probably view it differently,