I fish some of the S. Central PA creeks and catch my fare share of fish but I would not consider myself an expert. I also know a thing or two about playing larger fish on lite tippets. In the summer time I fish small flies very seldom anything larger then a size 20 and often down to size 26. Mostly 7x tippet but have been know to go down to 8x. and yes sometimes it is more effective. I also have a number of rods in the 2wt to 4wt range that can handle this combination. So my two cents is. In the right streams under the right conditions 7x & 8x tippet is quite effective and if you have the correct tools and no how to use them great then do it.
