And all the guys in this thread who are telling you that you are wrong, you aren't. It all depends on what your definition of right and wrong is, mine has nothing to do with whats written in a law, it has to do with how you treat other people. Laws do not equal right and wrong, never have and never will, anyone who tells you otherwise is thinking inside the box.

Your friend made an honest mistake (if everything you posted is true) and the WCO didnt treat him fairly or justly, sounds to me like he did everything he could to be as difficult as possible. Therefore the WCO is wrong and quite frankly sounds like his first name should be Richard because then you could call him Dick

This countries prison system is full of people with the same ideas.
