I now have a prototype of the Android Version but it still needs some work. Because of the late date, I will most likely release the Android app once I've debugged it without putting it out for large scale testing and do fixes as necessary. While this is risky, I'm pretty confident that any errors that show up will be minor or related to specific phone models. I'd rather get this in your hands ASAP.

For those who volunteered as App testers on Android, I apologize.
