Jdaddy, you should just send the speeding fine in anyway, cut them a check, write a letter to go with it and explain what happened. Do the right thing man, you broke the law, you should have to pay to be taught a lesson according to your own words above.

Whats pathetic and quite frankly sad is that there are so many people out there in the world like yourself who don't have the ability the think outside the box or grasp the concept that things aren't always black and white. More often than not life plays out in many many different shades of grey and you have to interpret things as they come, THINK, and react accordingly.

THINK?

The dude had a resident license, and wasn't a resident. Period. It's really that simple. There is no 'outside the box'. There is no extrapolation, no grey area. This is pretty black and white.
