Djberg- that thing shimmies and shakes. Should definitely catch fish. When I move I am going to get a big 55 gallon fish tank to test patterns in. If I had a pool I would probably testing patterns in it all the time. I'm sure that would make the wife happy. Lol.

I think one advantage we have over the gear guys is they can't duplicate what these flies do in the water. You can just hang one of these in the water column in current and it's going to wiggle and dance around, much more natural movement.
