

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Stuff

Re: Stuff

Author: : troutbert

Date: : 2013/5/3 8:30:54

URL:

Quote:

osprey wrote:

If each of us made it a habit to fill one of those plastic grocery bags and dispose of it properly each time we go , which takes about 5 minutes , you would notice the difference.

That's a good idea, but I think also organized annual cleanups help a great deal.

There are a lot of them around the state, so most people should be able to find one either near where they live, or on a stream they fish.

And people on here could organize a cleanup, using the forum. For example, several people mentioned French Creek as needing a cleanup. You could pick a Sat. morning, post it on here, and meet there with gloves and full sized garbage bags and go to it.

Even with a small group of people, 4 or 5 or so, and a fairly short period of time, about 2-3 hours, you can pick up a lot of garbage.

On the section of Spring Creek I helped on, we had 3 people working our side of the creek. The 3 of us picked up 12 full sized garbage bags of trash in the morning, in about 2 1/2 hours.