

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Fryin' up wild browns

Re: Fryin' up wild browns

Author: : BradFromPotter

Date: : 2013/5/3 9:33:13

URL:

Quote:

troutbert wrote:

Quote:

BradFromPotter wrote:

Quote:

troutbert wrote:

Quote:

geebee wrote:

Quote:

troutbert wrote:

Quote:

geebee wrote:

I think it would take a huge leap of faith on the part of the PFBC to stop stocking brownies and re-introduce just brookies.

Is anyone advocating that?

if they're asking you to chow down on a brownie, that's effectively what they are doing no ?

No, those positions are not not the same things at all.

Also, who are "they?" It says "they" in the OP, but doesn't state who is referred to. You shouldn't assume that "they" actually exist.

Dwight,
I confess I heard about "they" on Glenn Beck.

Ah, so "they" are Saudi nationals!!!

Joking aside, yinz can look at the regs book and see what it says for Brook Trout Enhancement regs. It says C&R for brookies. And that these regs apply to brook trout only, for other species the normal regulations apply.

That's it. So, for species other than brook trout, the regs are the same as the general regs across the whole state.

There is no language saying that they "really encourage the harvesting of the browns."

I never said that it was in the regs book. It was just an opinion of what I thought it meant to NOT kill any brook trout & to be allowed to kill brown trout on a stream that has more brook trout then brown trout. The more I think of it I still think it was a very subtle way of encouraging the harvest of brown trout.