

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Will work for help!!

Re: Will work for help!!

Author: : Phish_On

Date: : 2013/5/3 22:45:27

URL:

Quote:

whheff wrote:

I would suggest using the Davy Knot instead of the clinch knot. Since I started using the Davy Knot, I have not lost a fish because of it.

Google Davy Knot. It is easy to tie and strong too.

Its a very good knot. I fished it for awhile till I started losing fish cause of it. Since then I used an improved clinch for just about everything. I used the ICK before the davy. Got turned on to the davy cause its ease of tying. It defiantly does not have the knot strength as the ICK. Since I stated going back to the ICK, I have not had a failure. But to each there own. Find what works for you, and thats all that matters.

Also, good quality tippet matter is a must. If you ask me. I use Frogs Hair fluorocarbon. A little pricey but well worth it.