Scientific Anglers Patents

It'll be interesting to see if we see any changes in the orvis line up. Although, I've kinda gotten sucked into this to avoid studying for my engineering finals, and I just found out that 3M, not SA, owns the main patent for making Sharkskin. I'm not gonna pretend to know a lot about this, but it's still fun to read and speculate about.

By the way, HA, you might not remember but you gave me a ride from the Little Lehigh to wherever we ate lunch a couple years back during a newbie jam. I was only 16 or 17 at the time. I'll have to make another trip up there sometime soon to show you guys how far I've come. I might have given up before I "got it" if it wasn't for that newbie jam.
