Way too early weather report. Couple of ways to look at this.

Optimist: Not too bad. Rain is all light and showery, rather than steady. It's all on Thursday and Friday, none over the weekend. Doesn't look to be any great amounts to mess up streams too much. And clouds are good for fishin.

Pessimist: Cold and wet. Sucks for the tenters! Long term forecasts usually peg systems too early, so Thursday/Friday is likely to move back to the weekend. Also, while this picto forecast looks like light, spotty rain, that's just hedging bets a little. If you look up the actual models, that's a awfully big blob, and it's pretty dark green looking too! This is, afterall, the jam, what else would you expect?
