I wear sunglasses simply to protect my eyes at all times, even on cloudier, overcast days.

My favorite frames are Native. I have had two pairs for about two years now. I spent some change on them, so they are kept close. One pair has pretty easy interchangeable lenses, I usually keep the grey polarized in for every day use. I almost always forget to swap the lenses to amber on cloudy days or low light situations.

I agree with the above about not being able to see through a fast current or ripples with glasses. Like before though, mine are always on.
