

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Bass Fly Fishing

Re: Bass Fly Fishing

Author: : henrydavid

Date: : 2013/5/7 15:32:59

URL:

My daytime popper action in the Susquehanna North Branch was extremely slow the past 2 seasons. I had some amazing days on topwater poppers in seasons past, the topwater bite is sometimes difficult to figure out. Woolly Buggers and Streamers accounted for most of my daytime smallies.

After dark however all bets are off, that's when I've had the best action. Whatever displaces a lot of water will get attention, the river really comes alive at night.

I would say the best topwater action in my region is at least a good month away, probably more.