Well, I do know mudpuppies have now invaded the Hudson via the Erie Canal. They'd do quite well in the Delaware and Lehigh systems, I think. They're not native there, and I haven't seen anything that they made it there, but I don't exactly keep up on these things. It certainly wouldn't surprise me.

Perhaps you should show your picture to the PFBC, with location, and ask for an ID.

Or, it could be something else. I just can't quite imagine what.
