

Subject: : Fly Tying

Topic: : Humps Sulphur Nymph

Re: Humps Sulphur Nymph

Author: : Chooch

Date: : 2013/5/8 21:58:03

URL:

Quote:

JeffK wrote:

Just an aside. The lead over dubbed cotton method to get a flat nymph is used with the George Harvey stonefly nymph and works really well for March Brown nymphs as well. It is a great technique for a number of nymph patterns to get a flat body that sinks.

Agreed, but the guy in that video does a pretty poor job of reproducing the technique. Lashing lead wire to both sides of the hook shank also flattens out the profile of the fly and is a much quicker and easier technique.